Lebanon Rebels Plan to Set Up Government!

By TOM MASTERTON

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A member of the opposition group disclosed today that Lebanese opposition leaders are discussing formation of a rebel government as a rival to the regime of President Camille Chamoun. The informant told reporters no decision had been reached.

A series of explosions amid sporadic shooting shook Beirut today as Lebanon's capital closed tighter than at any time since the general strike began 7 days ago.

No pitched battles were reported.

After a violent weekend, the population is intimidated, and scattered disturbances frightened most people off the streets.

Shops closed in districts normally quiet. Offices which had maintained business as usual were closing and sending their employees home. In some districts no sign of life was visible. Even private residences were tightly shut.

During the morning a bomb exploded near the American University. Another went off near the Finance Ministry. A outbreak of shooting was reported from the Moslem quarter where followers of rebel leader Sube Salam hold the area.

An atmosphere of tension hung as though the population expected a major new outbreak. In everyone's minds was the possibility of religious civil war in a nation half Moslem and half Christian.

This was the Lebanese atmosphere as the country awaited U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold, due here Wednesday. A U.N. spokesman said Hammarskjold will attend the first meeting of the U.N. watchdog commission set up by the Security Council to bar the flow of arms across Lebanon's borders.

Already U.N. observers were visiting frontier regions. The spokesman said 15 more observers are expected Tuesday-10 from Norway and 5 from the U.N. truce team in Palestine.

BEIRUT (AP) — American families had the go-ahead to move out of Lebanon today as the anti-government rebels kept up a determined, bloody stand before U.N. Secretary Dag Hammarskjold arrived to direct his international team of observers.

Bitter fighting broke out in the capital Saturday and continued Sunday until government security forces pinned down the insurgents in their strongholds at the center of Beirut. Heavy shooting stopped by noon but sporadic firing and

Big Celebration Planned July 4 at Washington

On the Fourth of July the historic town of Washington, Arkansas, will open its doors to the public in a new and different manner. A day-long celebration is being planned to call attention to the historical background of the town.

On the morning of the fourth of July a number of the old homes, dating back to pre-civil war days, will be open to the public for the first time. There will be at least two conducted tours through these homes, and other historical spots, before noon.

At noon a luncheon will be served at the Washington High School Gymnasium building.

In the afternoon state, district, and county candidates, or their representatives, will speak from the steps of the old Courthouse building.

The July 4th affair is being planned by the Washington Community Accomplishment Club.

PARIS (AP) — Premier de Gaulle will confer with British Prime Minister Macmillan before the end of this month.

Official sources said no precise date has yet been set for the meeting, but June 27 is mentioned frequently.

It will be De Gaulle's first meeting with a top leader of The Western Alliance since taking office.

De Gaulle will proceed by only a week his scheduled talks with U.S. Secretary of State Dulles July 5.

Although the general has pledged his allegiance to the Western Alliance, it is understood he foresees a more independent role for France within it.

De Gaulle returned today from a country weekend to find his desk piled high with North African problems.

De Gaulle's designated representative in North Africa, Gen. Raoul Salan, officially took over the minister's office in the Algiers government headquarters building today. But informed sources said De Gaulle was planning a second trip to Algeria within the next month to tighten his authority here.

Annual Rotary Ann
Banquet Held at
Lawson Hotel Tuesday

Some sixty Rotarians their Rotarian Ann and guests attended the Annual Rotary Ann Banquet of the Prescott Rotary Club at the Lawson Hotel Tuesday night.

With President Jack Harrell presiding, the meeting was opened with the invocation by Charlie Tompkins.

Following a delicious meal of Bar-B-Cue chicken, each member introduced his Rotary Ann and other guests. Following this president Harrell called on R. P. Hamby, the club's only Honorary Member, to introduce the guest speaker, Mr. Farrah Newberry, retired lawyer of Arkadelphia.

After entertaining his audience for several minutes with humorous stories, Mr. Newberry chose as his subject: Rotarians in A Changing World. Predicting the changes that will be made in our every day living twenty-five years from now, Mr. Newberry related some astounding changes that will be made. He mentioned some of the changes expected in housing and the conveniences of the home to be available. Life expectancy will be past 80 years due to new drugs and medicines. There will be a four-hour work week and wages will be doubled. There will be 130 million cars, most of them operated by pushing buttons. Fifty billion dollars will be spent on education abundantly, and teachers in the grade and high schools will be doubled and in colleges they will be tripled. Most all students will finish college.

Atomic power will be used for many factories and industries. All these improvements will not decrease the number of jobs. Mr. Newberry said, but will tend to create more. The big problem will be raw materials but these will be supplied by the creation and invention of new materials, Mr. Newberry said.

He said that war is the greatest danger to all this progress and

Court Ruling Again Favors Communists

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled today the State Department was wrong in denying passports to two applicants who refused to sign non-Communist affidavits.

The ruling applied to Rockwell Kent, 75-year-old artist, and Dr. Walter Brecht, Los Angeles psychiatrist.

Justice Douglas delivered the 5-4 decision. Justice Clark wrote a dissenting opinion joined by Justices Burton, Harlan and Whittaker.

Joining Douglas in the majority were Chief Justice Warren and Justices Black, Frankfurter and Brennan.

Douglas said in the majority opinion that "We will not readily infer that Congress gave the secretary of state unbridled discretion" to withhold passports.

Douglas said the court would be faced with important constitutional questions if it were to hold that Congress had given the secretary authority to withhold passports to citizens because of their beliefs or associations.

Kent in 1955 asked for a passport to go to Europe to paint pictures. Dr. Brecht the same year asked for a passport to enable him to attend medical conventions in Geneva and Istanbul.

They were denied passports after declining to say whether they had ever been members of the Communist party.

High Court Rules Against Hot Cargo

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled 6-3 today that unions may not enforce "hot cargo" provisions of labor contracts by appealing to workers not to handle the hot cargo.

When such appeals are made, the court ruled, the unions cannot use hot cargo contracts as a defense against charges of violating the Taft-Hartley Act.

The court held that voluntary observance of a hot cargo provision by an employer does not constitute a violation of Taft-Hartley.

Justice Frankfurter wrote the majority opinion. Justice Douglas wrote a dissenting opinion joined by Chief Justice Warren and Justice Black.

The Teamsters Union has insisted upon hot cargo clauses in making contracts with employers. The clauses provide that workers may refuse to handle goods if their union says such handling is unfair to labor.

Goods involved in such cases are called hot cargo. The goods so named usually are from munition plants, or from plants affected by strikes.

Hit-Run Truck Kills Cyclist

HOGIE, Ark. (AP) — A truck apparently knocked a cyclist off U. S. Highway 67 near Hogie today and sped on without stopping, Sheriff D. S. Foley reported. The cyclist was killed.

Dead is Frank Warnick, about 70, of the Arbor Grove community near Walnut Edge.

Officers launched a search for a red-and-black light truck reportedly traveling on the highway about the time the accident occurred.

Foley said Warnick was found dead on the roadside by Earl Doyle of Hogie. Warnick's demolished bicycle was nearby.

The collision occurred about 300 yards south of Hogie's southern limits.

Survivors include the widow and three sons.

Adams
Adams was both attacked and defended by prominent Americans over the weekend. One of his staunchest supporters was his wife. Another was former FTC Chairman Edward F. Howrey, who testified today.

Howrey, who headed the FTC when Goldfine had trouble with the agency, said FTC "certainly treated him [Goldfine] no differently from anyone else and it was handled in a perfectly routine way."

Mrs. Adams took congressional Democrats to task for the ordeal she said is being visited on her husband. They are "just going to hound him until he has to leave," she said in a copyrighted interview in the Minneapolis Tribune and Des Moines Register.

Mrs. Adams acknowledged her family received many gifts from Goldfine over the years, but pictured this as a part of a friendly relationship between the two families.

However critics point to records showing Adams stays there more in different suites at different times.

Adams has promised to "devote all the facts we can" to a major political storm now building around Adams. He announced present and former heads of the Federal Trade Commission to determine whether the agency gave special treatment to Goldfine. Possibly he has with the President and industrialists and old friends

Austin, Texas, and Daniel Reynolds of Camden.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Hussman, wore a dress of American Beauty perfume, fashioned with a fitted basque and bell skirt with matching accessories, together with a corsage of cymbidium orchids.

The Rev. Dr. T. J. Wilbanks, pastor emeritus of the Pine Street Presbyterian Church of Texarkana, Texas, officiated at the double ring ceremony before an altar flanked by ivory rose trees. Pews on either side of the aisle held long ivory lapers secured with pink chrysanthemums and pale pink satin ribbons.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, who is publisher of several South Arkansas daily newspapers, including the Camden News and the Texarkana Gazette and Daily News.

The bride's father, an attorney and former special Justice of the Supreme Court of Arkansas, was best man.

The bride wore a gown of ivory silk mist, fashioned on princess lines with a molded bell skirt and chapel train. A deep vole of crystal-edged alencon lace formed a shallow oval neckline with a scalloped edge, and short-sleeved sleeves. The lace was repeated in a narrow garland which circled the skirt and in great medallions placed at intervals through the skirt and train.

Her finger tip veil of illusion was secured by an open-crowned bonnet of identical lace and pearls. She carried a colonial bouquet of ivory rose buds.

Mrs. Jack Newton of Camden selected selections from Bach and Brahms, including the Bach chorale, "Jesus Joy of Man's Desiring," before the entrance of the bridal party, as well as the traditional wedding march and recessional.

Orland Linebarier and David Reynolds, both of Camden, the sons respectively of Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Linebarier and Mr. and Mrs. James Reynolds, were candle lighters.

Walter Edward Hussman, Jr., brother of the bride, was ring bearer.

The bride is the granddaughter of Mrs. W. J. Hussman of St. Louis, Mo., and the late Mr. Hussman and of Mrs. C. E. Palmer of Texarkana, Texas, and the late Mr. Palmer.

She was graduated from Stephens College in Columbia, Mo., and from Washington University in St. Louis, with the degree of Bachelor of Arts.

The bridegroom is the grandson of Mrs. W. H. Arnold of Texarkana, and the late Mr. Arnold, and of Mrs. Tom Connally of Washington, D. C.

Redlegs Take Pair; Braves Edge Cardinals

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Harvey Haddix pitched his best game of the year for Cincinnati Sunday as the Redlegs swept a doubleheader from Chicago 7-0 and 4-2.

The little left-hander permitted only seven hits in the opener in pitching the team's third shutout in a span of five games. The double triumph gave Billie "Bellets" crew 11 victories in the last 16 games. They are in third position, 8½ games behind the league leading Milwaukee Braves.

The Braves came from behind to defeat the St. Louis Cardinals 4-2 and retain their 1½ game advantage over the runner-up San Francisco Giants, who defeated Philadelphia 3-1. Three Pittsburgh home runs in the ninth highlighted the Pirates' 12-1 rout of the Dodgers in Los Angeles.

All four doubleheaders in the American League resulted in sweeps. The Detroit Tigers shut out the New York Yankees 2-0 and 3-0 behind Frank Lary and Jim Bunning for a sweep of the four-game series. Chicago handed the same medicine to Baltimore behind Jim Wilson and Dick Donovan, 2-0 and 4-0. Cleveland defeated Washington 5-3 and 4-2 and Kansas City whipped Boston 17-6 and 9-4.

Pete Whisenant paced the Redlegs' first game attack against the Cubs. Taylor Phillips, losing his first after four victories, Whisenant doubled home two runs in the seventh and hit a three-run homer in the ninth. Believers Tom Acker and Johnny Klippstein nullified several Cub threats in the second game after Cincinnati had scored two runs in each of the first two innings off loser Dick Dietrich.

Harry Hancbrink, a .169 hitting outfielder, smacked a three-run ninth inning that earned the Braves both comeback victory over St. Louis. Reliever Don McMahon won his sixth against one defeat, Al Worthington, miking his first start since April 18, stopped the Phillips with eight hits as the Giants took the rubber game of the three-game series. The loser was Cliff Simpons.

Pittsburgh's Frank Thomas, forced to leave in the fifth when he was hit on the hand by a pitched ball, boosted his league-leading homer total to 20 and his RBI total to 61. X-rays showed no broken bones in Thomas' hand, on including a spectacular sweep without a victory.

Violent Death Toll in State Reaches 17

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Three persons drowned over the weekend and two were killed in traffic accidents to increase Arkansas' violent death toll to 17 for the week with ended Sunday morning.

An 17-year-old youth lost his life yesterday while trying to save his young brother and Sheriff C. R. Burgess said, the boy became the sixth drowning victim within a year on Red River in an area extending about 15 miles south of Garland City.

Burgess said Noel O'Neil Hartfield went to aid his 14-year-old brother Willie when the younger boy stepped into a deep hole. Elmer Gorum, operator of the Spring Bank Ferry nearby, pulled Willie Harris, and three other youths into a tubboat. Gorum could not find Noel, the sheriff said. The victim's body was recovered by a rescue team a short time later.

Bill Kinzie, 76, of McGehee drowned Saturday while fishing with two companions near Gilett, James Hesselrode, and Randolph Edwards of McGehee reported that Kinzie fell out of their boat. The body was recovered.

A 15-year-old Little Rock Negro, Thomas Williams, apparently drowned Saturday while swimming in the Arkansas River at Little Rock. A companion said the victim apparently was swept away by a whirlpool. The body was not recovered.

In a vehicle collision in North Little Rock yesterday killed a 20-year-old man and seriously injured two other persons.

Killed in the crash was R. M. Underwood of North Little Rock. Lonnie Isham, 51, of Little Rock, and his wife Gladys, 50, were hospitalized with serious injuries.

Police said the accident occurred when Underwood's car and the Isham auto collided head-on. They said a half-ton truck driven by Bill Arkwright, 45, of Little Rock, was following the Isham car and crashed into the wreckage. Arkwright escaped injury.

A 3-year-old Stone County boy was struck and killed by a 14-year-old when he darted across State Highway 35 two miles south of Benton.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Bill Dyar said Johnny Davis Jr. ran into the path of an approaching car shortly before he was called across the highway by the automobile.

WOTTA BITE! — It looks as though Gibbo Brush is ready to dig right into a four-pound, 10-ounce large mouth bass he the Los Angeles five-year-old pulled out of Lake Malibu. Despite the fancy lures on his hat, the youngster used worms hooked to the end of 10 feet of 20-pound test line on an old bamboo rod.

Snarling Tigers Slap Yankees in Twin Bill

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The suddenly snarling Detroit Tigers are the hottest team in the major leagues right now, but they continue to be the enigma of the baseball world.

How can one team be so fulsome under one manager and so ferocious under another? It's certainly not that Jack Tighe was a bad manager, or that Bill Norman, who succeeded Tighe a week ago, has been waving a magic wand.

Still, the figures are there. Under Tighe, the Tigers won 21 of 49 for a .429 percentage. With Norman, they've won six of seven, including a spectacular sweep of the four-game series from the New York Yankees in Yankee Stadium.

Frank Lary and Jim Bunning did the pitching for Detroit Sunday as the Tigers shut out the American League leaders twice 2-0 and 3-0. Ossie Virgil, Harvey Kuenn and Gail Harris drove in the key runs in the first double shutout the Yankees have suffered in 11 years.

Kansas City smacked Boston down in a double-header 17-6 and 9-4. Cleveland took two from Washington 5-3 and 4-2 and Chicago shut out Baltimore twice 3-0 and 4-0.

In the National League, Cincinnati downed the Chicago Cubs 7-0 and 4-2. Milwaukee defeated St. Louis 4-2. San Francisco topped Philadelphia 3-1 and Pittsburgh thrashed Los Angeles 12-1.

No! since Philadelphia's Carl Fornieles and Dick Fowler hurled back-to-back shutouts on May 30, 1957, have two pitchers been able to blank the Yankee twice in one afternoon. Don Larsen (6-1) and Bob Turley (10-2) were the victims.

Bob Cory and Chico Carrasquel spearheaded the Athletics in their double triumph that moved them to within half a game of the Red Sox. Cory, league leader in home runs and runs batted in, belted his 17th homer, three triples and a pair of singles and drove in five runs to boost his RBI total to 41.

Carrasquel obtained Thursday from Cleveland had seven hits five in the first game.

Vic Power traded to Cleveland after the twin bill, but safely in each game to extend his batting streak to 22 straight games. Duke Maas traded to the Yankees went the distance in the nightcap.

Selected were Lou Siegel of Little Rock, Don Durlo of El Dorado, Alex Sheshunoff of Magnolia and Jay Sheshunoff Jr. of Pine Bluff. Rudy Marlin of Pine Bluff was named an alternate.

The team will participate in the Missouri Valley Junior Davis Cup program at St. Louis July 8-12.

Carol's eyes looked beyond Rosser and widened in shock

By FRANK GRUBER

CHAPTER I

Lee Ring tied his horse to a post behind Riley Condor's Kansas Saloon, rolled a cigarette and lighted it, while his eyes searched the alley to the right and left. Then he moved swiftly to a door and knocked.

The door was opened after a moment by Riley Condor himself. Condor's right hand was in the pocket of his sack coat, gripping a short-barreled .41 revolver. He looked inquiringly at Ring. "Who are you?"

"I got a letter from Mr. Condor. You write it?"

Condor took his hand out of his coat pocket and pulled the door open wider. "You're cautious enough to be Lee Ring."

Ring bobbed his head and stepped into Condor's office, which was at the rear of his saloon. Condor closed the door leading to the alley.

"You've got the letter with you?"

"No," said the man from Idaho, "but I can tell you what was in it. It asked if I was interested in earning $2,000."

"Would you kill a man?"

"You don't get two thousand for digging potatoes."

"For that matter, you don't usually get two thousand for killing a man, do you?"

Ring made a gesture of dismissal. "You set the price, Mr. Condor."

"Not exactly. I'm not in this alone. Ten business men of this town put up $200 each. There's a man we want—ah—eliminated."

"It's none of my business, Mr. Condor," Ring said slowly, "but couldn't you get your marshal to chase this man out of town?"

"The man happens to be the marshal."

"Tom Rosser?"

"You've heard of him?"

"Rosser's a lot of man."

Tom Rosser had never liked the quiet of the early evening. It always seemed to him that it was the lull before the storm.

There were 10 saloons in Broken Lance and the owners of all of them hated Tom Rosser, but Riley Condor owned the biggest saloon in town and his hatred for Tom Rosser was proportionately greater.

Grady Parish, Rosser's deputy, came up as he stood outside El's Inn.

"Fella visitin' Condor," Parish said quietly. "Saw his horse at Doc Meany's stable. The brand's an Idaho one."

Rosser took out a thin, twisted stogie and bit off an end. He stuffed the cigar in his mouth but did not light it.

His eyes went to the veranda of the Kansas Hotel. Carol Granian had come out. Rosser knew that she had seen him and was waiting for him to come to the hotel and have supper with her.

He went toward the hotel, and as his eyes took in Carol, a glow of warmth spread through him. She was a handsome woman, reaching 25, and she should have been married and living in a home of her own. Instead, she clinked at Eaton's Dry Goods Store in Broken Lance.

She had a slender, yet mature figure. Her eyes were a grayish blue, and her features were fully chiseled. Her hair was a deep raven, almost mahogany.

She said as Rosser climbed the stairs to the hotel veranda, "I was just waiting for a man to come along and buy me my dinner."

They were eating the soggy dried-apple pie when Carol said quietly, "You've told the town council that you're leaving Saturday? There's a man there from Idaho."

Carol explained poignantly, "One more man you've got to fight! One more man you've got to kill!"

"This one's been brought in by Riley Condor."

"You said you wanted to be a marshal."

"We'll have that life," Rosser said earnestly. "I can't run out on a night, Carol. I can't quit under fire . . ."

"I can," she flashed. "I'm taking the eastbound, Saturday with you . . ."

"Or without you. Turn in your badge tonight."

A frown creased his forehead. "I can't tonight. Perhaps tomorrow, or the day after."

"If you're alive by then!" She suddenly pushed back her chair.

She waited and after a moment he made a helpless gesture and the walked out of the dining room. Rosser paid the bill and strolled out.

He crossed to the mud-chinked building that was a combination marshal's office and jail. Grady Parish sat at a small desk inside the room.

Parish said worriedly, "I've caught a whisper or two around town. It isn't just Condor."

"They're all in it. They've made up a purse for — for the gun-fighter."

"That figures. But Condor's still their leader."

A boy of 16 came into the marshal's office. "Mr. Rosser," he said, "I've got a message for you."

"All right, lets see it."

"It isn't a note. She told me to tell you—Miss Carol wants to talk to you at the hotel."

Rosser hesitated then took a half dollar from his pocket. The boy backed away. "No, Miss Carol already gave me a half dollar."

"All right, thanks."

The boy turned and ran out of the office. Parish suddenly pushed back his chair.

"Tom, you don't think?"

"No," Rosser said quickly. "I had dinner with Carol and—we had words."

Parish relaxed. "I see."

Rosser went out of the office, but instead of crossing the street and going to the hotel, he turned left and walked to the livery stable a half block away.

The night boster was in charge of the stable.

"A m'rose," Rosser said, "you've got an Idaho horse here."

Walking W. brand. Could be Idaho."

Rosser went on to the hotel.

Rosser went to the desk. Key No. 6 was gone from the key rack. That was as it should be.

On the second floor, he looked down a hall lit only by a dim lantern hung on the wall, halfway down the corridor. There were six doors on each side.

All the doors were closed.

He reached the door of No. 6, listened then knocked lightly.

"Yes!" It was her voice inside the room.

"Tom."

He could hear the quick inhalings of her breath, then her foot steps as she came quickly to the door. She opened it. "Come in," she said poignantly.

He did not enter, however.

"Did you send a message?"

"A mos . . ." She never finished the question.

Her eyes looked beyond Rosser and widened in shock. Behind Rosser, the door of No. 4 had opened noiselessly on well-oiled hinges. The muzzle of a gun was thrust out. Thunder roared the narrow hallway of the hotel. The bullet snuffed out the lamp on the wall, plunging the hall into darkness, save for the shaft of light from the open door of Carol's room.

Rosser was reaching for his gun and whirled when the other man's gun roared. He threw himself forward and sideward when the gun thundered for the second time. Wind tugged at him as the bullet missed him narrowly. Then Rosser was firing.

He fired as he was going down, a second time after he hit the floor and then a third time as boots bounded the floor boards.

He had no target at which to shoot, was firing blindly and his quarry was fleeing. He scrambled to his feet, coiled to pursue . . . when a strangled sob stopped him. He turned and in the light from Carol's room saw her huddled body on the floor.

He sprang back and fell to his knees beside her.

"Carol," he cried out in horror.

She was lying motionless on her side. Bloody fluid was already welling up from her mouth but her eyes were still open.

They met Rosser's eyes and he saw

Candidates to Formally Start Campaigns

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

By the end of the week the three opponents to Gov. Orval Faubus' third-term bid will have launched their campaigns formally. Chancellor Lee Ward of Paragould got his race off officially Saturday night at Jonesboro, charging that Faubus had "mastered the technique of the demagogue."

Chris Finkbeiner, the Little Rock meat packer, will hold his formal opening at Pine Bluff next Saturday night.

The governor has announced no date for his opening. He said several weeks ago that he would not begin his dash to the July 29 and Aug. 12 primaries until the first of July. Robert J. Brown of Little Rock, the fourth gubernatorial candidate, apparently does not plan a major campaign.

Ward and Finkbeiner appeared Saturday at Warren's second annual Pink Tomato Festival.

Finkbeiner said he felt the state should be run on a business-like basis and said he was going to campaign on integrity in government.

At Jonesboro — in a speech broadcast statewide — Ward said "I have a strong preference for segregation. At the same time I have a strong respect for law and order. I believe that within the framework of law we can work out solutions to these programs."

He outlined a 7-point platform, pledging:

To help maintain a high quality of instruction in public schools and improve it wherever possible.

To help co-ordinate the development of industry and agriculture. To take political favoritism out of the Welfare Department and bring welfare benefits closer to the national average.

To ask the Legislature to require a minimum residence of one year before anyone may obtain a divorce.

To strengthen Arkansas' independent boards and commissions and preserve them from third-term machine control.

To stop tax increases and waste of tax money.

To return law and order to Arkansas.

The Rev. E. J. Holifield of Jonesboro, who introduced the chancellor, prefaced his remarks with a charge that pressure had been exerted on him to withdraw as master of ceremonies for Ward's formal opening.

Holifield, superintendent of the Jonesboro District of the Methodist Church, said a friend had told him he was "threatened with harm of some nature" if he failed to withdraw.

I was also told that petitions were being circulated—one asking me to withdraw and another asking that I be transferred from here by the Methodist Church," Holifield asserted. He did not identify persons allegedly involved in the threats.

Ward, traveling the state in a helicopter, plans a busy week. His schedule:

Monday — Coler, Mountain Home, Calico Rock, Melbourne, Mountain View and Batesville.

Tuesday—Cave City, Orlie Trouth, Newark, Swifton, Tuckerian and Walnut Ridge.

Wednesday — Bradford, Bald Knob, Judsonia, Kensem, Beulah, Pangburn and Mount Nebo.

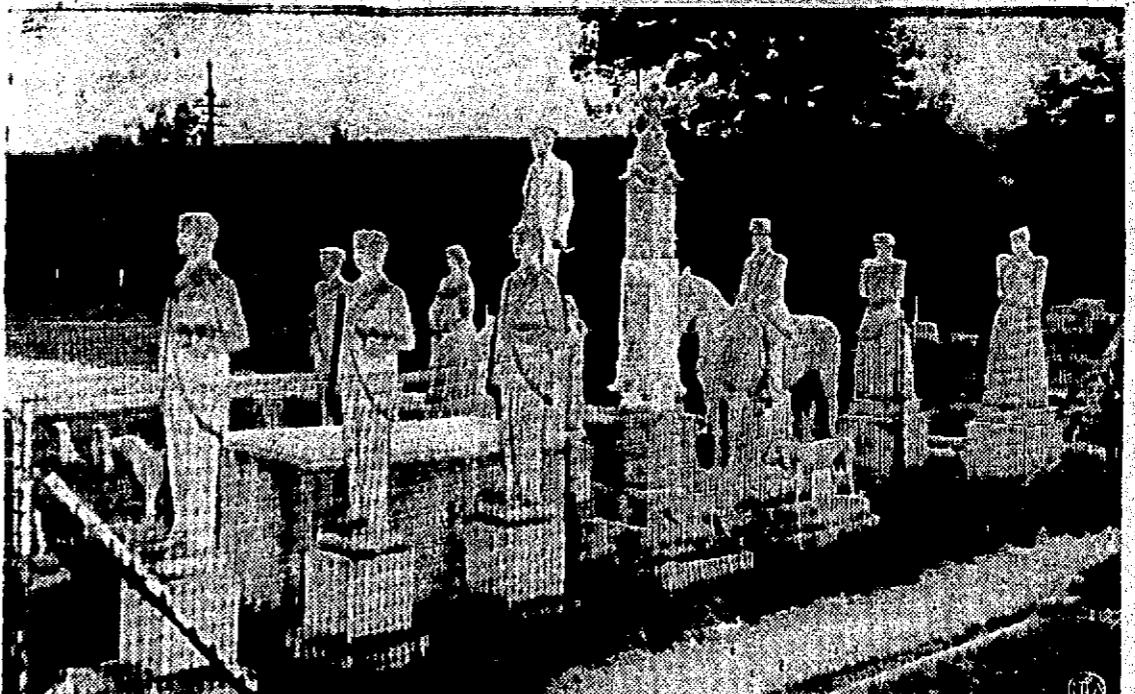

Thursday — Mammoth Spring, Salem, Evening Shade, Ash Flat, Hardy, Imboden and Newport.

Friday — Caraway, Monette, Rector, Piggott, Corning and Pocahontas.

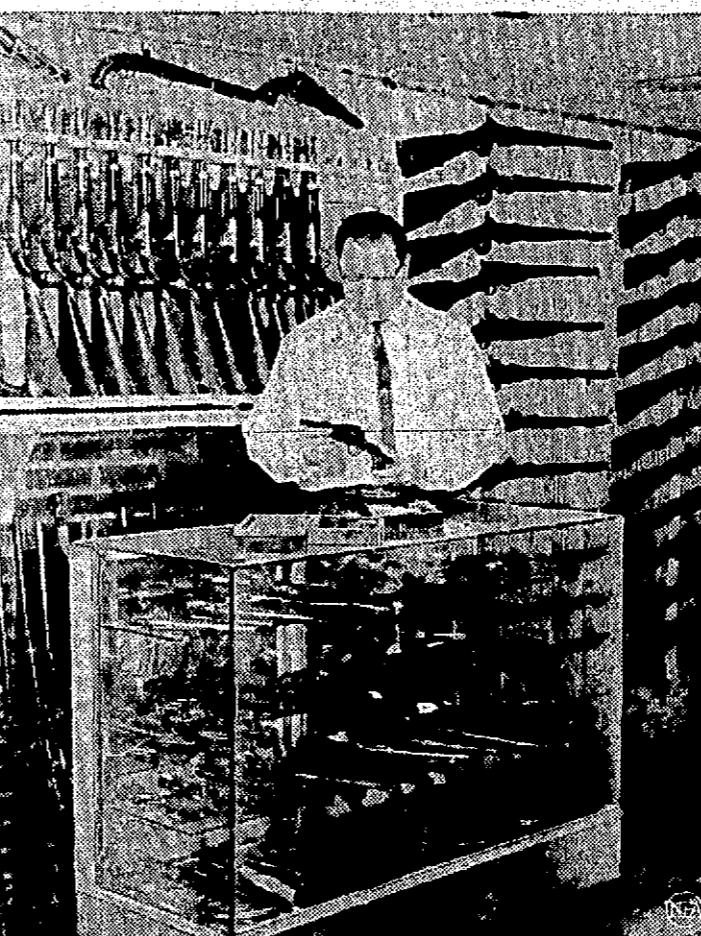

Saturday — Weiner, Harrisburg, Trimann, Marked Tree, Tyronza, Lepanto and Paragould.

Finkbeiner remained at Little Rock today for informal "coffee party" meetings.

Tuesday he will visit supporters in Clarksville and has meetings

CEMENTED RELATIONS—One of the prime tourist attractions in Mayfield, Ky., is, of all places, the town cemetery. The visitors stop in to view the granite likenesses of the members of the Wooldridge family interred there. Above each grave is a full-sized statue of a member of the family, including Col. Henry C. Wooldridge on horseback. Other statues are four brothers, three sweethearts, two nieces, two hounds, a deer and a pet fox.

ONE-MAN ARSENAL—The 1951 gift of a rifle, that a friend didn't want, started Ray Wehing on a gun collection. Fascinated by the 45-70 Springfield, a post-Civil War gun, Ray has added more than 400 weapons to his one-man arsenal. He is shown with part of his collection in the game room of his home in Blackridge, a suburb of Pittsburgh. The walls of the room are lined with pre-Civil War rifles and muskets, and the cases have little room left for more antique revolvers and pistols.
